Re: National Social Science and Technology Conference: April 2-4, 2023

Dear Zijie Zhang,

Your proposal "Shang Oracle Bones Analyzed: A Quantitative Approach in Mathematical Humanities" has been selected for the National Social Science and Technology Conference, April 2-4, 2023.

The National Social Science Association is the largest interdisciplinary social science association now and is responsible for the training of social scientists through its conferences and publications. The 2023 National Social Science and Technology Conference will return to the central Las Vegas strip to the Flamingo Hotel. Presentations will cover teaching, technology, and research. Your speaker registration form is located at: https://nssa.us/nat_tech_registration.php and will cover the opening complimentary cocktail party with food, two continental breakfasts, an awards luncheon plus all breaks and all sessions. If you are the organizer or the chair of a panel, you are required to attend the conference in person since we will offer no online option this year. Please notify us immediately if you or any of your panelists cannot attend the conference in person. Hotel rooms are limited at the discounted rate, so make sure you fill in the hotel information on the speaker registration form to reserve your hotel room at the conference hotel. The deadline for speaker registration is March 10, 2023.

All presentations, that follow the publication guidelines information sheet, can be submitted for publication in the National Social Science Proceedings (the conference proceedings publication) and submitted for peer review for publication in the National Social Science Journal or National Social Science Technology Journal. We look forward to your presentation at the national conference of the association and thank you for your proposal for this meeting. And we are very happy to offer you substantially discounted hotel rates at the Flamingo Hotel for this conference.

Sincerely,

Dr. Jerry Baydo
